Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Group I in the reply filed on 6-22-06 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the examiner has not satisfied the "special technical features" requirement of PCT Rule 13.2. This is not found persuasive because each of the claimed groups do not have the property of the silicon carbide matrix in common.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Weaver et al (4,019,913).

Weaver et al teach a composite silicon carbide body formed from a mixture of silicon carbide particles of less than 10 microns and colloidal carbon (submicron carbon), see column 3, lines 32-43. The formed body is subjected to molten silicon that reacts with the graphite to form a silicon carbide phase in situ, column 4, lines 1-3.

Art Unit: 1755

Although the grain sizes of the final article are not disclosed the particle sizes and process of making are not unlike that claimed therefor the claimed grain sizes would be inherent of the composite taught by Weaver et al. The silicon carbide phases and bending strengths also would be formed by the process of Weaver et al absent tangible evidence to the contrary.

It is well settled that when a claimed composition appears to be substantially the same as a composition disclosed in the prior art, the burden is properly upon the applicant to prove by way of tangible evidence that the prior art composition does not necessarily possess characteristics attributed to the CLAIMED composition. In re Spada, 911 F.2d 705, 15 USPQ2d 1655 (Fed. Circ. 1990); In re Fitzgerald, 619 F.2d 67, 205 USPQ 594 (CCPA 1980); In re Swinehart, 439 F.2d 2109, 169 USPQ 226 (CCPA 1971).

5. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Kojima et al (5,589,116).

Kojima et al teach a silicon carbide composite formed from silicon carbide having a particle size of preferable .7-10 microns (column 8, lines 56-60) and fine particles of carbon of 1 micron and less (column 9, lines 35-40). The silicon carbide is beta silicon carbide (column 11, line 44). A body is formed from the mixture and infiltrated with molten silicon where the silicon reacts with the free carbon to form silicon carbide (column 9, lines 55-58). The silicon phase comprises 0-40 wt% of the composite.

It is well settled that when a claimed composition appears to be substantially the same as a composition disclosed in the prior art, the burden is properly upon the applicant to prove by way of tangible evidence that the prior art composition does not necessarily possess characteristics attributed to the CLAIMED composition. In re Spada, 911 F.2d 705, 15 USPQ2d 1655 (Fed. Circ. 1990); In re Fitzgerald, 619 F.2d 67, 205 USPQ 594 (CCPA 1980); In re Swinehart, 439 F.2d 2109, 169 USPQ 226 (CCPA 1971).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

6. Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1, "the interstices" lacks antecedent basis.

Claim 4, "the intergranular area" lacks antecedent basis.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
